4.2

An open cardboard box is shown from a three-quarter perspective, with its top flaps open. A bright yellow light emanates from the interior of the box, creating a glowing effect. Overlaid on this light is the number '4.2' in a large, semi-transparent, golden-yellow font. The box itself is a light tan color with a slight shadow on the bottom.

eZ Systems is pleased to announce the immediate release of eZ Publish 4.2, the exciting new version of its market-leading Open Source Content Management System. The new release brings important improvements to the heart of eZ solutions, the eZ Publish engine, as well as major advances and new features for eZ Flow and eZ Find. A new extension, eZSI, makes its debut in the 4.2 package providing full support for the Edge Side Include standard to eZ Publish.

Bård Farstad, CTO and Founder of eZ Publish, described the motivation underlying the new release: "Our team focused on Usability for both end-users and editors, as well as Scalability and Performance for customers using eZ Publish in extremely high-traffic installations". Farstad emphasized that "in those two focus areas, eZ Find (the enterprise-grade search plugin for eZ Publish) has become a key element for achieving the best results".

The 4.2 release was developed by eZ Systems with contributions from eZ Publish partners and trusted community members, and is immediately available as certified software, which benefits from eZ System's Premium support and maintenance services, including the unlimited bugfix guarantee.

eZ Publish received the first price in the 2009 Content Management System Software category at toptenreviews.com

Havalah Gholdston at toptenreviews says "eZ Publish wins our "TopTenREVIEWS Gold Award" for content management system software by dint of it having the most check marks in the review. It is one of the world's leading Open Source Enterprise CMS and development architecture. Some users might consider this complex framework to be complicated, but they generally agree that eZ Publish has one feature that stands above the rest: the ability to create different content classes in the administration interface. If you want to create your own custom site on a solid framework, this CMS could be for you".

Madsack publishing group switches eight of its newspaper portals over to eZ Systems platform

The Madsack publishing group, which is based in Hannover and is one of the major German publishers of daily newspapers (www.madsack.de), has switched eight of its on-line portals over to eZ Publish Premium, the enterprise CMS platform from eZ Systems (www.ez.no). eZ Systems is the largest open-source content management software provider in the world, with headquarters in Skien, Norway, and a German subsidiary based in Dortmund.

Martina Lenk, Managing Director of Madsack Online GmbH & Co. KG and responsible for the switch to the eZ Publish platform, explains: "Before, we had to use services from our Web agency for practically every action and for every little change to the layout. The new content platform from eZ, on the other hand, has given us substantially more flexibility for our day-to-day work." While all of the sites are based on the same simple, easy-maintenance content platform, each of the Madsack portals has its own individual look. The multi-portal capability and the flexibility of the modular content platform were major factors in Madsack's decision in favor of eZ Publish Premium. By contrast to community-driven development models, users of eZ Publish Premium receive service and support from the provider, eZ Systems. That means that eZ Publish Premium combines the innovation capability and openness of an open-source product with the total product responsibility of its provider, eZ Systems.

"We now have one online basis for all companies," Lenk says. "This makes it much easier to distribute the content – our texts and images." eZ Publish now allows Madsack to manage the platforms automatically and centrally while also enabling editorial interventions by the various regional editorial desks. The features enabled by eZ Systems also include interfaces to the print system Madsack uses, DTI, and to the news channel operated by the dpa news agency. The titles published by Madsack whose websites now run on the shared eZ Publish Premium content platform include: the Hannoverische Allgemeine Zeitung (haz.de); Neue Presse (neuepresse.de); Göttinger Tageblatt und Eichsfelder Tageblatt (goettinger-tageblatt.de); Peiner Allgemeine Zeitung (paz-online.de); Oberhessische Presse (op-marburg.de); Schaumburger Nachrichten (sn-online.de); the Wolfsburger Allgemeine Zeitung and Aller Zeitung (waz-online.de); as well as the Waldeckische Landeszeitung and the Frankenberger Zeitung (wlz-fz.de).

German Silver Partner infolox GmbH created an eZ Publish based Website and On-line-Shop that integrates with their "Katalogfabrik" - Product Information Management (PIM) for 3M Schweiz AG.

3M is a diversified technology company serving customers and communities with innovative products and services all over the world. One of their six business divisions is the "Consumer and Office" domain with well-known brands like "Scotch" and "Post-it".

infolox implemented a user friendly online platform which provides access to information on products and services for business customers to enhance marketing and sales via a better presence in the B2B market.

3M went for the ideal combination of eZ Publish and infolox' "Katalogfabrik" PIM. Information on products can now easily be edited and added in PIM and made available for web publishing via the CMS connector to eZ Publish.
